Spider Strategies Scores Consecutive “Great Place to Work” Honor

Washingtonian Magazine places the innovative software solutions company on its prestigious list.

WASHINGTON, DC — October 27, 2009 — Spider Strategies, Inc., an award-winning performance management and software development firm, has again been selected as a Great Place to Work by Washingtonian Magazine. This citation acknowledges the company’s progressive culture and places it alongside a select few firms that have garnered the award twice in a row.

Since 1999 Washingtonian Magazine has been compiling its list of Great Places to Work in the Washington, D.C. area. Companies are selected based on their commitment to employee development, pay and benefits, scope of work, and flexibility. This year’s list of recognized companies is in the November 2009 issue of the magazine, now on newsstands.

“Being again selected as one of D.C.’s great places to work confirms that we have built a winning and rewarding culture from top to bottom,” states Conor D. Crimmins, Spider Strategies’ Chief Operating Officer. “It’s a sign of our commitment to not only build a successful company, but to also encourage our employees’ personal and professional growth while simultaneously creating a culture that is innovative and results-focused.”

Spider Strategies, founded in 2003, began as a Web-solutions provider, helping national corporations establish effective Web presences and build powerful additions to their marketing channels. In April 2004, Spider Strategies entered the Corporate Performance Management (CPM) market with its first off-the-shelf software product, Scoreboard®.

In 2008, Spider Strategies released CMS Scoreboard®, its Web-based metric assessment, action planning, and performance collaboration tool designed to help government and commercial organizations drive measurable improvement. Powered by the latest Web technologies, CMS Scoreboard is revolutionizing performance management. Recently, the company rolled out Spider Connect®, an easy-to-use, Web-based Export, Transform, and Load (ETL) tool that pulls information from spreadsheets, databases, and Web services directly into CMS Scoreboard.
