

Easy and Intuitive

Data Import and Linkage

It's not Brain Surgery

Sharing data within an organization has always been a problem that IT departments struggle with. Nothing is ever in the right format, and System Administrators burn through resources writing and maintaining brittle scripts. When you think about it, though, the process itself isn't particularly complicated. It's really only a matter of connecting to a data source and selecting the data you want. There has just never been a tool that does this well.

Until now. Spider Strategies Connect™ makes importing data easy and completely intuitive. Its graphical wizards glide users through imports from databases, Microsoft Excel, and Web Services. And unlike traditional ETL tools, Connect integrates tightly with your other Spider Strategies products, allowing you to map incoming data to your existing structure via drag and drop.

Even better, Connect is fully Web-based, which means vastly reduced IT overhead and the ability to monitor your scheduled imports from anywhere.

It's really that simple.

Spider Strategies' Connect is a graphical, Web-based tool that allows you to use your organization's data in Spider Strategies products. We invite you to join us at spiderstrategies.com to learn more.

“Finding a tool that can accommodate 750 unique scorecards and 37,000 plus metrics was a challenging task. Spider not only met our requirements, but also exceeded our expectations in every way possible.”

— Kristina Haakman
Starbucks Canada

Connect™

Spider Strategies Connect is a Web-based tool that allows you to easily import your data into Spider Strategies products. Connect can “talk” to:

Excel: Your organization is already tracking metrics in Excel. Connect takes the data from your spreadsheets and automates it online.

Databases: If you're storing data in Oracle, SQL Server, or MySQL, Connect is the right tool for the job.

Web Services: Service Oriented Architecture (SOA) is the future of data exchange, and Connect is leading the way.

Spider Strategies, Inc., is a pioneering software company with offices in Washington, D.C. and St. Paul, MN. Spider Strategies helps corporations, government, and military organizations drive industry-leading performance through the use of its performance management/business intelligence software.